On May 17th just before noon, the CO @ the front desk in the health unit reported that inmate R. [REDACTED] was coming down on MOA because he was hearing voices and he was threatening to harm himself. Shortly after, inmate R. [REDACTED] was indeed brought to the MHU and placed on MOA. This move was reported to Mental Health.

On my return from level, I walked by R. [REDACTED]'s cell, and he spoke to me - Mr. R. [REDACTED] is known to me from previous association. He was dressed in the blue quilted "MOA" gown. He pointed to bruising and abrasions on his left upper arm and chest. He stated "Look what the CO did. I was ^{ERROR} scared. I waited until he went to level and told the other COs he was hearing voices and was going to kill myself." The bruised and abraded areas were approximately 10 cm on his chest, and 10-15 cm on his left upper arm.

Mr. R. did not know the name of the CO that he claimed had injured him. He did not explain anything else about the incident at that time as he didn't want to call attention to himself at that time. I witnessed the bruising and abrasions through the door. The bruising appeared consistent with a recent injury - that is fresh bruising within the past few hours.

I reported to the mental health person that Mr. R. may have different issues than previously expressed.
